What sets this class apart from other aromatherapy training?

Aromatherapy is an unregulated field - that means anyone can take training or read a book, call themselves an aromatherapist and actually practice the discipline. So, ask your teachers about length of time spent in education, training and actual practice.

Hallie is nationally certified in Holistic Aromatherapy. She teaches the essential oil curriculum at Finger Lakes School of Massage, has been practicing as a certified aromatherapist since 2002, pursuing a clinical aromatherapy path since 2005 and her classes are approved for continuing education credit through the National Certification Board for Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork
